

Dr. H. John Barnes

Dr. Oscar Fletcher

POULTRY
Health Management

Dr. David Ley

Dr. Michael Martin

Committed to teaching, research, and service to meet needs of students, poultry and allied industries, and veterinary and science communities.

Dr. Isabel Gimeno

Dr. James Guy

Outreach Includes:

The Poultry Health Management Team supports continued improvement of undergraduate, veterinary, and graduate instruction in poultry health. We strive to provide an education program based on traditional foundation of poultry health (pathology, microbiology, medicine, and production) and on allied disciplines (communications, economics, biotechnology, epidemiology, information management, and systemic analysis).

- 1) Establishing a poultry education resource center based on a multimedia digital library for development of distance learning, teaching support, and outreach
- 2) Offering continuing education programs for poultry health professionals
- 3) Conducting basic and applied research on poultry health and production with an emphasis on emerging problems affecting the North Carolina poultry industry
- 4) Providing clinical services to clients, industry, and government through problem solving and consultation.

